Research by Subject – Public Administration

<http://library.queensu.ca/research/guide/public-administration>

A selective but comprehensive guide to the core library resources for Public Administration, but remember that public administration is very interdisciplinary and you will want to refer to other subject guides depending upon your specific interests – eg. Aboriginal Studies, Political Studies, Environmental Studies, Education.

The screenshot shows the Queen's University Library homepage. At the top, there is a navigation bar with 'Find Information', 'How-to & Help', 'Services', and 'Locations & Hours'. Below this is a search bar for 'Summon (BETA)' with tabs for 'QCAC Catalogue', 'Databases', 'Journals A-Z', and 'Library Website'. A red box highlights these tabs. To the right, a callout box says 'Sign in to the web proxy service to connect to online subscription resources from off-campus'. Below the search bar, there are links for 'Course Reserves & Exams', 'RefWorks', and 'RACER (Interlibrary Loan)'. A red box highlights the 'Research by Subject' link. A callout box points to this link, stating 'Subject guides containing recommended research resources for every discipline at Queen's'. Below this is a grid of subject categories including Social Sciences, Arts & Humanities, Engineering & Science, Health Sciences, Education, Law, Other, and All Subjects A-Z. On the right, there is a 'News' section and a 'Robertson Davies Collection @ Queen's' banner. At the bottom right, there is a 'Queen's Learning Commons' banner.

Books

Search for books from the library homepage (library.queensu.ca) using either Summon or QCAT:

The screenshot shows the library's search interface. At the top, there are navigation tabs: 'Summon', 'QCAT Catalogue', 'Databases', 'Journals A-Z', and 'Library Website'. The 'QCAT Catalogue' tab is selected and highlighted with a red box. Below the tabs, the text reads 'Search the QCAT Library Catalogue:' followed by a search input field and a 'Search' button. To the right of the search field, it says '2010 Upgrade'. Below the search field, there are three links: 'Full Catalogue »', 'Advanced Search »', and 'Course Reserves »'. The 'Full Catalogue »' link is highlighted with a red box.

QCAT contains the books (including many of our electronic books), videos and government documents owned by Queen's Library.

Consult the Finding Books and More handout for more information about using QCAT

Tips for searching QCAT:

Omit initial articles when searching for a title (a, an, the, der, le etc.)

Two of the best ways to find books on your topic are with a keyword search (which works like Google, automatically anding each word you include in your search) or a keyword Boolean search, which allows you to control your search results by combining various words and phrases (using AND and OR) and excluding unwanted concepts (using NOT). Use quotation marks for phrases (e.g. “public administration”).

As you locate relevant titles, record the call numbers so you can locate the books in the Library and check the assigned subject headings to search for additional materials.

E-Books

Some of the library’s electronic books are listed in QCAT and Summon, but you may also search the e-book packages directly. Interdisciplinary e-book packages to which the Library subscribes are:

OECD ilibrary <http://library.queensu.ca/research/databases/record/2888>

Full-text of the publications of the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) including both books and journals. OECD data also available here.

Canadian Electronic Library <http://library.queensu.ca/research/databases/record/3356>

MyiLibrary <http://library.queensu.ca/research/databases/record/3422>

Cover-to-cover search and browse access to the full-text of books from various academic publishers

Finding Articles: Indexes and Databases

Search indexes and databases to find articles on your topic in scholarly journals, popular magazines and newspapers. The library subscribes to over 650 article indexes and databases and over 80,000 electronic journals and newspapers.

Databases are accessible from the library homepage and from library subject guides:

From the library homepage, choose the databases tab when you know the name of the database you wish to search. To view all databases associated with a particular discipline, choose Browse Databases by Subject.

Each academic discipline has its own specialized article indexes and databases, which index the core literature of that discipline (and often relevant topics from related-disciplines). One very important database is EconLit. Subject guides (<http://library.queensu.ca/research/subjects>) list core and related recommended databases for each discipline.

TIP: Due to the interdisciplinary nature of Public Administration, you may also find relevant articles using the article indexes and databases of other disciplines – such as Environment, Education, Law, Political Studies, Economics and Sociology.

Click the GetIt@Queen's button if the full text of the article is not in the database you are searching

Multidisciplinary Databases

Google Scholar <http://library.queensu.ca/research/databases/record/2998>

Use the Google search engine to locate articles from a wide variety of academic publishers, professional societies, preprint repositories and universities, as well as scholarly articles published on the "open" web. By searching Google Scholar through the Queen's web proxy (using the link provided above) the "Get It at Queen's" citation linker is activated (which allows you to click through to the Library's subscriptions).

Summon

Searches across most, but not all, of the library's electronic resources (catalogue, article indexes, databases, electronic book and journal collections); each citation includes a link to either the online version of the item or a link to a record that indicates where a paper (or microfilm) version is located within Queen's Library.

Academic Search Complete

A multi-disciplinary index (with abstracts) to more than 10,900 publications including peer-reviewed journals, popular magazines, conference proceedings, monographs and reports.

Journals

The Library subscribes to hundreds of journals relevant to the discipline of public administration. Individual journal titles are listed in QCAT. When you know the title of a journal you are looking for, do a journal title search in QCAT to determine its location (either in print, on the 2nd floor of Stauffer library, or online).

Alternatively, search for the name of the journal from the Journals A-Z tab on the library homepage:

Newspapers

Queen's Library subscribes to local, regional, national and international news databases. These databases provide significant date coverage (unlike the free news sites on the web) and allow for a variety of search capabilities ideal for academic-level research. Consult the guide to major news indexes and full-text news resources at Queen's Library <http://library.queensu.ca/research/guide/news-resources> for more information.

Websites

Not all sources on the Web are equally valuable or reliable. Critically evaluating the information you find is central to successful academic research. For evaluation criteria, see the Library's guide to Evaluating Web Sources <http://library.queensu.ca/inforef/tutorials/qcat/evalint.htm>.

Creating Alerts

Create subject alerts for databases and individual journals.

Cited Reference Searching

Who's citing whom? Who's being cited the most? Who's citing you? Some databases now provide access to tools for cited reference searching. For details see "Cited Reference Searching in the Social Sciences and Humanities"

When Queen's Library does not have what you need

ASK FOR HELP – we may actually have the material – Queen's is a complex academic library and sometimes we just do not make things that easy to find!

ASK US TO PURCHASE IT – if it is a specific book or dvd that you think the library should have, ask Jackie Druery, if it can be purchased for the library – we cannot promise that we can buy everything but often we can and do! Suggestions for new journal titles are also welcome but it will take longer for these to be made available.

ASK FOR AN INTERLIBRARY LOAN - request an interlibrary loan of journal articles, books and other materials. There is no charge to borrow books but you will be charged $3.00 for each journal article. Register and request your loan here.
